

JONATHAN C. BALLOCH

I am a driven scientist and engineer who thrives as both an individual and a team player. I am passionate about integrating AI and robotics into real-world applications and products.

WORK EXPERIENCE

08/2016 - Present
Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta
Graduate Research Assistant
Thesis: Adapting reinforcement learning agents to changes in the environment is vital for real-world applications of reinforcement learning. My work examines “novelties”—unexpected changes in the environment—and how learning agents can better adapt to novelties explore their environment and preserve prior knowledge.

05/2021-08/2021
SRI International, Palo Alto
PhD Intern
Designed algorithms for learning behavior trees using neural fictitious self-play for interpretable strategy in multi-agent reinforcement learning. The technique increased the convergence efficiency to winning policy on LaserTag and internal Battlefield simulators.

05/2018-08/2018
Google, Seattle
PhD SWE Intern
Implemented few-shot learning approach using active online sample selection for deep learning. Achieved a 2x sample efficiency improvement in classification tasks (MNIST & CIFAR10).

07/2013-07/2016
Intelligent Automation, Rockville, MD
Robotics Engineer
Specialized in design and development of computer vision, sensor fusion, and control systems in DARPA and DoD robotics research and development projects, collaborating with industry and academic groups. Examples of tangible contributions include improving contour-based feature tracking persistence, designing and implementing omnidirectional camera + IMU sensor head, and demonstrated our multi-arm control at the DARPA Robotic Challenge Trials Expo.

05/2012-08/2012
Lockheed Martin, Palo Alto
Graduate Research Intern
Developed a MATLAB package that reduced digital noise and increased precision in laser simulations.

06/2010-08/2010
NASA Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena
Planetary Science Intern
Modeled radiative transfer in the detached haze layer of Titan in FORTRAN. Discovered the cyclic seasonal altitude and eccentricity collapse/expansion of Titan’s atmosphere.

EDUCATION

08/2016 - Present
Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta
PhD - Computer Science (AI)

08/2011 - 12/2013
University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia
M.S. - Robotics

08/2007 - 12/2011
Georgetown University, Washington, D.C.
B.S. - Physics, Mathematics

AWARDS AND ACHIEVEMENTS

Technology Innovation: Generating Economic Results (TI:GER) Fellowship
Georgia Institute of Technology - (2020-2022)

Public Interest Technology Universities Network (PITUN) Fellowship
Georgia Institute of Technology and Georgia State University - (2020-2021)
